CREATING INCLUSIVE FEEDBACK
LOOPS
Feedback

As leaders, you will receive feedback from your team at various times throughout the year and sometimes throughout the day.

There are four quick ways for you to create inclusive feedback loops with your teams.
Listen.

Create various ways to receive input, such as scorecards, informal monthly lunches, and anonymous feedback surveys.
Think.

What will you do with what you have heard?
Recommend

What recommendation for changes can you make that might positively contribute to resolving the issue?
Get Input

Share your plan with team members and check that it addresses the issue.